

The O'Brien Institute for Public Health &
the Department of Community Health Sciences present:

Precision and economics in medical education

Speaker: Dr. Rachel Ellaway

Friday, October 12, 2018 - 12:00 to 12:50 p.m.
G500 - Health Sciences Centre, 3330 Hospital Dr NW

The presentation will critique current educational reforms in training tomorrow's doctors in the context of precision and economic drivers. Topics covered will include competency-based medical education, the social contract, and axiological inquiry in medical education.

Rachel Ellaway is a professor in Community Health Sciences and Director of the Office of Health and Medical Education Scholarship (OHMES) at the Cumming School of Medicine in Calgary. She is a widely acknowledged as a thought leader in medical education around the world.

Objectives:

1. Understand the conceptual basis for precision medical education and its intersections with social economics.
2. Put their own work, experiences, and interests in context of precision medical education and social economics.
3. Apply the concepts and approaches described to their own scholarship and professional activities.

This event is a self-approved group learning activity (Section 1) as defined by the Maintenance of Certification Program of the Royal College of Physicians and Surgeons of Canada. This seminar is also available via an online AdobeConnect session: To attend the seminar from another location via your computer, click on this link:

<https://connectmeeting.ucalgary.ca/oiph-oct-12-18/>

Enter as a guest. You may join the session at any time. It is advisable to test your audio before the seminar starts. The AdobeConnect session will be archived and accessible for later viewing at:

<https://www.obrieniph.ucalgary.ca/events/chsobrien-institute-seminar-series>